HIGH WINDS SLOW
SHIP FOR PERIOD

Plan Return Wednesday;
World Tour Follows
American Jaunt

Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 5.—A distinguished foreign visitor has come to town—Count Zeppelin.

It is of a mighty race which sings a steady song with purring motors, a Viking ballad of defiance against wind and storm.

Five thousand miles from Friedrichshafen came the German dirigible to conquer the elements which sent it on its way and greeted it at the end. But it was only a grand excursion in the clouds to the 19 passengers aboard.

Today in peaceful slumber, it lies snugly at rest inside the hangar here next to another graceful creature of the same family, the American Los Angeles.

Ground Wind Hampers
Against a vicious ground wind, a force of 500 sailors and marines walked the Zeppelin into its royal suite. It had been moored temporarily to a stub mast when brought to earth at 9:52 p. m. The crew of 40 stuck to the ship until it was safe in its steel bed.

The Zeppelin had covered the distance from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst in 95 hours and 22 minutes and had thereby lowered its own time on its first flight to America by 16 hours.

When the floating air castle first moved over Lakehurst at 7 o'clock the purple dusk, the wind was blowing a fury. Airport officials suggested via radio that the Zeppelin raise until the gale abated.

So the Zeppelin set out to give New York a show. It was because of head winds cutting down her speed that the airship had driven direct for Lakehurst passing up its plan across Washington and loil up the coast.

This aristocrat of the air is a traveler. Refueling of the Zeppelin will begin today and every effort will be made to start back across the seas on Wednesday. The only doubt ever to make the westward

Shreve was riding in a car with his son and Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Shreve of Goshen. The Shreve car and one driven by H. N. Savilla collided when Savilla turned north on the Johnson rd.

Mr. and Mrs. Shreve and their baby were cut and scratched but were dismissed from the hospital after treatment.

Leander Stockton of North Georgetown sustained injuries to his ribs and back when the car which he was driving left the road near Kensington. The machine broke several fence posts and struck a tree.

Must Face Sheriff
Stockton has been ordered to report to Sheriff W. J. Barlow when he recovers from his injuries.

New Record For Delayed Leap Set By East Liverpool Flier

Parachute jumpers have a new mark to shoot at today, and Rex Harker, 23, East Liverpool, is telling his friends how it feels to drop 9,600 feet through the air, before pulling the ring on his safety device.

The mark, believed to be a new world's record, was established over Lunken airport here yesterday.

It lasted by far, the record set by Gene Rock over South Bend Ind., two weeks ago, when Rock dropped 6,700 feet before pulling the safety cord.

Harker, in his record-breaking jump yesterday, was piloted to a height of 11,800 feet. He slipped over the side of the airplane and tumbled 9,600 feet headlong through the air. At a height of 2,200 feet, Harker pulled the ring and his parachute opened and he was settled easily to earth.

G. G. Manson, army parachute supervisor at Wright Field, Dayton, observed the jump and it is believed the record will be recognized.

Harker said he suffered no ill effects from the fall of more than a mile.

Harker is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Harker of East Liverpool and graduated from a Cincinnati flying school a year ago. He is employed by the Embury Riddle Flying Service. He is expected in East Liverpool for a visit today.

COLUMBIANA CO. FRUIT CROP NOT UP TO STANDARD

Observer Reports Wheat, Corn In Excellent Condition

OATS WILL RUN UNDER AVERAGE

Temperature For July Is Slightly Under Average

The fruit crop in Columbiana county this year is practically a failure, according to a survey just announced by Lawrence H. Copeland, of Millport, U. S. Department of Agriculture observer for this district.

"Weather during July worked a wonder on the corn," Copeland declared. "The same can be said about the potato acreage. Heat interspersed with 11 good rains turned the trick. An unusual heavy wheat and hay crop has been harvested, and pastures have been in excellent condition since late in June. The oats crop will be light and with the harvest about 10 days ahead."

The mean temperature for July was 81.2 and the mean minimum 57.9 with a temperature of 69.5. The normal temperature during the month of July during the last 37 years is recorded at 70.5.

Maximum temperature of 89 degrees was registered July 31 and the lowest of 41 degrees was July 21. The greatest daily range was 49 degrees and this was July 22. Precipitation during July in Columbiana county was 5.34 inches, the normal rainfall during July for 37 years being 4.35 inches.

The heaviest rainfall in 24 hours last month was July 5 when 1.30 inches fell. A light hail fell July 26 and thunderstorms were recorded July 5, 18, 26 and 29.

CANDIDATES FOR MAJORITY RACE PREPARE STANDS

Intensive Campaigning To Mark Final Week Before Primaries

PARTICIPANTS PLAN EXTENSIVE BATTLE

Mayor Hiddleston Only Aspirant To Post To Remain Silent

Post filed the office from 1919 to 1923, inclusive and lost in his attempt for a third term to Schaeffer. He retired from active politics and located a filling station at Millville, near here, but returned to this city a few months ago to accept a position as constable of Perry township.

John W. Davidson, Republican, and George M. Arter, Democrat, both were unsuccessful aspirants to the position quite a period back.

George W. Allen, justice of peace, and Earl A. Ritchie, constable of Perry township, are the other candidates to the post. Allen polled 776 votes in the 1927 election, running third in a field of five candidates for the justice office in the city, while Ritchie drew votes of 103 electors for third position in a field of four candidates.

Hiddleston Silent On Issues
Hiddleston, to-date, has not taken any active part in the majority campaign this year, and has hinted that he will not stage any until after the primary voting is over. Allen has located his campaign headquarters in an uptown office, and has hinted that he will throw a surprise into the ranks of the office-seekers before the day of elections, but has as yet taken no definite stand on his platform.

One of the outstanding differences in this year's campaign, is the number of varying predictions made by each candidate concerning majorities, pluralities and other electoral elements. Confidence is the keynote of each campaign.

This race has an added interest with the water project and street renaming issues, together with a few minor traffic problems, but none of the candidates has offered any opinion being of the opinion that the difference of ideas on these matters throughout the city is too great to make such risk.

With only one week left before Salem voters start their line of march to their respective places at the primary election, Salem's eight majority candidates were settling down to intensive campaign work today.

Each of the eight participants in the majority fight, with the possible exception of Mayor Phil G. Hiddleston, Democrat, running for his second term, has planned for an

CLEVELAND MAN TO SPEAK HERE

Rev. Homer Cox Will Be On Program Of Meeting

Courtroom, Columbus, O., Aug. 5.—A bitter fight to prevent William C. Howells, Columbus correspondent of the Cleveland Plain Dealer and president of the Ohio Legislative Correspondents' association, from telling the jury that Dr. James H. Snook told him in an interview, was staged today at the trial of Snook for the murder of Miss Theora Hix, young co-ed.

Vigorous objection to Howells' testimony was made by Attorney E. O. Ricketts, of defense counsel and Judge Henry L. Scarlett dismissed the jury while Ricketts fought the matter out with Prosecutor John J. Chester, Jr., who had summoned Howells to the stand.

Stop Howells' Testimony
Howells got as far as testifying he had two interviews with Snook, the first on the Tuesday after he was arrested as a suspect and the second interview on the morning of Friday, June 21, at five minutes after midnight. This was shortly after Snook had signed a confession admitting he had slain Miss Hix. Present at this interview, besides himself, Howells said, were Sheriff Harry T. Paul, a deputy sheriff, an assistant prosecutor, and another reporter.

"I objected to this testimony," shouted Ricketts, and the battle was on. The judge excused the jury while the issue was debated.

Attorney Ricketts objected to Howells' testimony on the ground that the party which visited Snook "was organized by the prosecutor's office."

"The confession Dr. Snook was supposed to have given prior to that was obtained under duress and after the weekly report of the Ohio state highways department states today.

Carr discovered the robbery about 8 a. m. today, on opening the store and preparing for business. Thompson was immediately notified and he and Patrolman Jesse Gray conducted the investigation of the case.

PASSENGERS LOIN IN PRAISE OF DIRIGIBLE AS MEANS OF TRAVEL

Graf Zeppelin Proves Palace of Comforts Despite Bad Weather Encountered On Trip Across Ocean; Women Enjoy Voyage

New York, Aug. 5.—When the Graf Zeppelin settled to the land at Lakehurst, a great fanfare of black and white, it was a strange sight of another dirigible—but when 19 clean-clad passengers stepped casually from her cabin it became a trans-Atlantic transport and the paradox was completed by the passengers' stories.

In the hectic minute while customs officials were inspecting baggage and while on the special train that brought them to New York at 1:45 a. m. today, the voyagers told their experiences and reactions.

As they spoke, the chapter was written into aviation history which changed trans-Atlantic air travel from romance to matter-of-fact incident. The creature to whom night shadows and floodlights had lent an almost unbelievable appearance and thrilled thousands became—the Graf Zeppelin.

Even those of the passengers who were only slightly acquainted with travel by air reported that there were few thrills—just a comfortable, interesting, inspiring voyage.

"Wonderful," yes—in comfort, in the magnificent vistas it opened; in the ease of the ship's handling and in the perfection of its mechanics.

Sir George Hubert Wilkins, explorer who has spent 200 hours aboard expecting to undergo hardships and experience thrills. But certainly there were no hardships.

"The food was excellent and the sleeping accommodations more pleasant than those on trains."

One of the two women who made the trip, her first flight of more than a short distance, named her biggest thrill without hesitancy:

"The great thrill I got was seeing the Graf in the air before we got

WOOL GROWERS SHIP PRODUCT

Women's Dress Blamed For Low Prices On Market

Three cars of wool totaling 37,000 pounds or 18½ tons have been shipped out of Columbiana county and through the office of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau.

One car from Kensington weighed 13,000 pounds and one out of East Palestine 7,000 pounds with another shipped out of Lisbon weighing 17,000 pounds. The shipment from Lisbon was the heaviest in recent years, while there was a decline in the East Palestine weight. The three cars were shipped to the Horkhemmer warehouse at Wheeling, W. Va., which is associated with the Ohio Wool Growers' Association.

While the tonnage shipped this year is about the same as last year, it is declared that because of the present low market a number of Ohio sheep growers in the eastern part of the county are still holding their clips for a higher market.

"The low market is due in the main to the scant dress now being worn by women," declared Stanley Howard of the Farm Bureau Shipping division. "Men's clothing also does not contain as much wool as formerly, and those two factors enter largely into present wool market conditions."

LEGION PLANNING FOR NEW HOME

Lisbon Veterans May Be Buyers of Church Property

Lisbon, Aug. 5.—John Welsh Post, American Legion, proposes to take over for its own use the former Reformed church property, West Lincoln Way, according to details discussed at a meeting of the Post.

The property is now on the market its use for church purposes having been suspended last year, and an application has been filed in common pleas court by the Reformed Church Mission Board asking permission to dispose of the property as it is no longer being used for the purpose for which it was erected.

It has been proposed by the Post members to acquire title to the property before Armistice Day and to dedicate the building at that time. A committee, composed of George C. Porter, Louis A. Binsley and Len R. Riddle, has been appointed to arrange an Armistice Day program.

Should the church property be acquired by the American Legion, it will be remodeled in a slight way to meet the requirements of the organization.

Passes Over New York

In its junket to New York and return the Zeppelin was a silver finger brushing across the sky. A study in pale lavender and black, its cabin lights out-twinkled the stars.

"Aint it pretty," said one of these effeminate marines, the kind who cut their chewing tobacco with a bayonet.

Turning back to its haven, the dirigible dived low over the hangar, a triumphant drone. It moved into an electrical festival.

Thousands of eye-drunk pilgrims were going home satisfied. The headlights of their automobiles stretched forth along the road, a diamond necklace with no beginning nor ending, framing the huge central open space reserved for the descent of the airship.

Play on this space was the giant naval searchlight. A series of nine red lights in the shape of a big V dotted the landing field, marking the approximate spot where the Zeppelin was to be brought down to earth. The naval radio sparked out light signals, the better for the air liner to see and hear.

A pair of slender ropes came down from the ship, spider webs, the name for further lead lines, were attached. A dozen more lines slipped from the sky. A thousand sinewed hands of gob and leather-neck took hold.

As the gondola touched the turf, Sir George Hubert Wilkins was the first to step out. The noted explorer had a duty. By special dispensation he was permitted to hasten over to deliver in person his written story of the flight.

The other voyagers stepped home. Stepped into a bedlam of clicking cameras question-marking reporters, smiling customs men and greeters in general including press agents for everything from canaries to flying aerobats.

Philadelphia, Aug. 5.—Albert Buschke, 17, stoway aboard the Graf Zeppelin, was brought to the Gloucester (N. J.) immigration station today from Lakehurst.

He will be detained here until Wednesday or Thursday when he will be taken to New York for return to Germany.

He told officials he boarded the Graf just as it was leaving the hangar, sliding down a rope to the top of the ship and crawling in one of the portholes. He said his mother lived in Werne, Westphalia.

DIRECTOR WARNS AIR PASSENGERS

Flying With Unlicensed Pilots May Mean Disaster; County Officials Responsible

Columbus, O., Aug. 5.—"Don't fly with an unlicensed pilot. He may tell you everything is all right, but your widow will find out he was wrong."

In this brusque manner, which was tinged somewhat with humor, State Director of Aeronautics John W. Vorys, issued a warning to the "air-minded" people of the Buckeye state today in conjunction with the issuance of the regulations for the enforcement of licensing provisions of the aircraft control act.

Ohio's airplane code, Vorys said, is virtually the same as the national law.

"Enforcement of the code is to be in the hands of local officials, and as most flying is carried on from outside municipalities," he stated, the bulk of the work will devolve on county officials.

He said he had forwarded copies of the regulations to every county prosecutor and sheriff in the state.

Chang's extradition to Tokio is demanded.

Wellsville Independents Defeat Salem Grate Motors, 15-10

Grate Motors Drop Contest To Wellsville

Independents Easily Win 15-10 Decision Over Salem Outfit

BILL MUNDY HURLS FOR VISITING NINE

Four Fielding Accounts For One-Sidedness Of Count; Nine Errors

Wellsville Independents won their second game in two days from the E. L. Grate Motors, defeating the Salem aggregation in a one-sided affair at Centennial park, Sunday, by a 15-10 score. Wellsville also defeated the Motors at Wellsville, 8-2, Saturday.

Bill Mundy, crack East Liverpool sandlotter, formerly a Salem star performer, with the old Mullins team, hurried for the visiting crew, yesterday and had everything his own way up to the eighth and ninth innings when he cased up The Motors, scored eight times in these frames.

Shortly Borton clouted out four hits in five times up, while Pete Sartick slapped out the only home-run of the game.

Drakulich started on the mound for Salem, but collided with Menough in going after a fly ball in the third and was forced to retire. Poor fielding by Carlino and Roberts, who misjudged several fly balls with men on bases, and seven untold errors figured prominently in the Salem nine's Waterloo.

Indians Divide Twinbill With N. Y. Yankees

Hugman slam out Decisive 12-0 Victory In First But Lose Second

CUBS TRIM DODGERS TO GAIN ON PIRATES

Cleveland Batters Clout Out Nine Runs In Ninth Inning

By HENRY MCLEMORE

New York, Aug. 5.—Those Yankees refuse to disappoint the customers.

Having reached the stage where they can hardly be called contenders for the pennant, Miller Huggins's henchmen have resorted to other and more vulgar means than contending for holding the boys and girls in their seats.

Witness yesterday. After having bled some 55,000 trusting souls by kicking the Cleveland 12 to 0 in the opener, the Yanks went into the ninth of the second game leading 6 to 5. Two Indians were put away.

Here Miller's boys noticed some of the faithful sneaking toward the exits as they proceeded to lean over the handle-bars and start coasting. Before they reached the bottom of the hill the Indians had scored some nine runs and earned themselves an even break.

Thus the Athletics lost nothing while they shuffled the lost pinhole deck down in their favorite hostility.

Detroit Takes Two

Detroit's snarling but not so dangerous Tigers battled their way to a double win over Mr. Walter Johnson's puffing Senators, taking the opener 10 to 5 and the second 13 to 11.

Big Ed Morris, who no doubt longs for a better ball club with which to display his genuine talent limited the White Sox to three hits and Boston was compelled to win, doing so by 2 to 0.

Chicago, seemingly determined to make a walkaway of the National league race, took Brooklyn for a 6 to 4 ride and eased one-half game further ahead of the idle Pirates.

But the Robins gave up the ghost only after a bitter struggle during which time they twice held the lead.

Riggs Stephenson's homer in the sixth tied things up and the Cubs went on in the seventh to wallop William Watson Clark for two runs and a ball game.

WOODS and WATERS by HOMER BOW

Dangers In Hunting

A man died in this city last week of bullet wounds sustained while hunting groundhogs. He was shot in the head with a 22 caliber rifle by a long-time friend.

The coroner called it an accidental shooting. It seems that the hunter who was killed was hatless and was walking along a ridge, or just coming over it. His friend was on the other side of the ridge and seeing the tuft of hair fired. He rushed to the top of the hill and found his friend lying there. The dead man left a widow and two sons.

Things like this can happen easily unless the shooter is well aware of what his target is. In the excitement of a hunt, it would be difficult to distinguish between woodchuck and a man's bare head, but a moment's hesitation might have saved a life. While game is not exactly plentiful in Ohio and this safety-hesitation might mean a miss, but lost game is of little consequence compared to lost lives.

When I fish down the river, I have afforded a great deal of amusement for natives of the territory with a waterproof cap which can be reversed and display a flaming red crown. The red is exposed when along the banks, as there are many groundhog hunters in that locality and it is not hard to distinguish between game and a piece of red cloth.

Frog Shortage

C. F. Walker, of Ohio State university, has made a plea for legislation to protect bullfrogs. He states that the genuine bullfrog is rare in the state, although the large green frogs are in abundance. They are smaller than the true bull.

Walker is making a collection of frogs, snakes, lizards and insects for Ohio State museum. In a recent article he identified the rattlers of the Roosevelt game preserve as forest rattlers. He states he has never seen the diamond back north of the Ohio river.

Snapping Turtles

No less an authority than William Beebe, naturalist and explorer, whose trips have taken him into trio outfields, and leading National league batsman, was seen leaving the field with a smile. For Mr. Herman got three hits out of four, a percentage which has never been known to hurt a batting average.

The Cards, blanked Boston 5 to 0 and Jackie May curbed the Philadelphia sluggers and his Red teammates pounded out a 7 to 1 win.

On the turtle's tongue are two long slender projections which he can wave in the water while resting, almost hidden, on the bottom. Fish are attracted by the movement and appearance of the projections and when they approach close, the turtle "snaps" and takes them.

Very few of us will doubt that the turtle could catch a fish that came within the radius of his jaws and quickly moving head.

Young waterfowl are also food for the larger snappers, which can approach under water, seize the unsuspecting youngster and drag it down.

We have among us turtle hunters who wade streams and "feel" for turtle under banks and driftwood. I class these chaps as braver than hunters for the Alaskan Brown bear. The latter can at least see what they are doing.

Kansas City, Kas.—A small boy here may lose the sight of his left eye as the result of an attack on him by a large rooster in the yard of his home here recently.

Felix Albertson, Jr., 2 years old, was saved from further injuries when his mother, hearing his screams rushed out and drove the rooster away.

Getting Enough

Jack Quinn, Philadelphia Athletic pitcher, who will be 44 his next birthday, is making fans wonder what keeps his joints from squeaking in every pitch he makes. Jack has decided to retire from the game after the end of the present season. If he does, he will have completed 29 years as a twirler, 16 of them in the majors. He has played in 462 games and pitched 2,641 innings. Enough's enough, says Jack.

"THE SHOW BOAT"

The greatest romance ever written by Edna Ferber.

The greatest musical comedy ever staged.

The greatest romance ever filmed by a motion picture company.

That's "Show Boat," Universal's million-dollar super talking picture combined with Ziegfeld's famous stage production, which will be the attraction at the Royal theater starting tonight. It was produced for the screen with a cast of talented celebrities headed by Laura La Plante, Joseph Schildkraut and Gail Harlan. Helen Morgan, Jack Palance, Aunt Jemima and other Ziegfeld stars contribute songs and choruses.

The story concerns Magnolia Hawks, loved by Capt. Andy her father, and Paddy, her mother, joint owners of a Show Boat. Her mother tries to protect her from the worldly influence of the Show Boat, but when Magnolia grows to womanhood she becomes the star of the floating theatre and falls in love with the show boat man, Gaylord Ravenal, a Mississippi river gambler.

She marries him and flees from the Show Boat to Chicago where Ravenal plunges into the unsavory life of the gambling dens. Life becomes uncertain, hectic, yet their great love dominates everything. But always there is the Show Boat, the river, lapping at its sides, beckoning Magnolia to return.

The cast includes such famous players as Alma Rubens, Emily Fitzroy, Elsie Bartlett, Neely Edwards, Jane La Verne, Blanche Craig, Theodore Lorch and many others.

This picture carries strongest endorsement—perfect entertainment—popular stars in a beautiful story, music, songs, dramatic dialogue—the fascinating atmosphere of the Show Boat and Chicago at its wickedest—and a superlative directorial treatment.

"LAST OF MRS. CHEYNEY"

Norma Shearer, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's popular and beautiful young star, has one of the best roles of her career in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," a noteworthy screen adaptation of Frederick Lonsdale's famous stage play which is now showing at the State Theatre.

The production is a smart and witty comedy affording Miss Shearer one of those aristocratic, sophisticated characterizations, which fit her so perfectly. Spice is added to the role by the fact that Miss Shearer is not only the heroine, a lady of romance who wins the heart and hand of a most fastidious nobleman, but also a lady crook, who victimizes the elite of British society, among which she moves, through the cooperation of her burling butler, superbly played by George Barrard. It is only when she steals a priceless pearl necklace from her hostess at a houseparty, that her nefarious activities are disclosed.

The discovery marks a surprising dramatic climax in which Miss Shearer rises to superb histrionic heights.

Played with a rapid, airy tempo, the production is one of sheer entertainment. Miss Shearer makes "Mrs. Cheyney" a delightful, amusing and lovable character.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Young Norton

From the Orient comes a dish which is growing in popularity in American restaurants and homes. It is a one-plate dish, and it may be strictly vegetarian or may contain meat.

The basis of pilau is either rice or cracked wheat—rice being preferable to the wheat in warm weather. And brown rice is preferable to the white rice. If you happen to have some boiled rice left, it may be made into a pilau for the next meal. But otherwise vegetables are cooked with the raw rice, until it has absorbed all the juice and is tender.

There are a few kinds of pilau in which no meat is used:

Tomato Pilau

- 1 cup rice, uncooked.
- 2 lbs. ripe tomatoes.
- 1 cup bouillon.
- 2 onions.
- 4 tablespoons butter.
- 1 teaspoon salt.
- 1-3 teaspoon ginger.

Heat the tomatoes a few moments, then press through a sieve. Fry the onions in 1 tablespoon of butter, then add to tomato juice and bouillon which must be heated together. When it comes to a boil, add the rice, reduce the flame, and add salt and ginger. Stir the rice, absorb all the liquid. Then add seasoning and 3 tablespoons of butter, and mix through the rice with a fork, cover the pan and let stand over a very small flame for ten minutes, watching to be sure it does not burn.

Oriental Pilau

When adding rice to the tomato juice, as described above, also add a cup of skinned almonds, either halved or whole, but not in broken bits. When this is cooked for about an hour with the rice and tomato mixture it develops a delicious, rather exotic flavor.

Chicken Pilau

- 1 chicken.
- 1 cup rice, uncooked.
- 1 onion.
- 1 teaspoon salt.
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper.
- 2 tablespoons butter.
- 1/2 teaspoon curry powder.

Cut the chicken into serving pieces and brown quickly in the butter on both sides. Add onions, rice and enough hot water to completely cover. Cook over a low flame for about an hour or until the chicken is tender. Add spices, heat for five minutes longer and serve.

Lamb Pilau

- 1 pound lamb.
- 1 medium size egg plant.
- 1 cup rice.
- 2 tablespoons butter.
- 1 teaspoon salt.
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper.
- 1 onion.
- 1 teaspoon chopped parsley.
- 4 cups hot water or bouillon.

The lamb should be mince bone and fat, but any section will do. It should be cut into two-inch cubes. Brown the sliced onion in the butter, add lamb and war quickly then add hot water or bouillon and the rice. Cook over a low fire for 30 minutes. Peel the eggplant and cut into two-inch cubes. Add to lamb and rice and continue cooking for half an hour until eggplant is tender. Do not overcook or it becomes shapeless and unattractive. Season a few moments before removing from fire and garnish with chopped parsley.

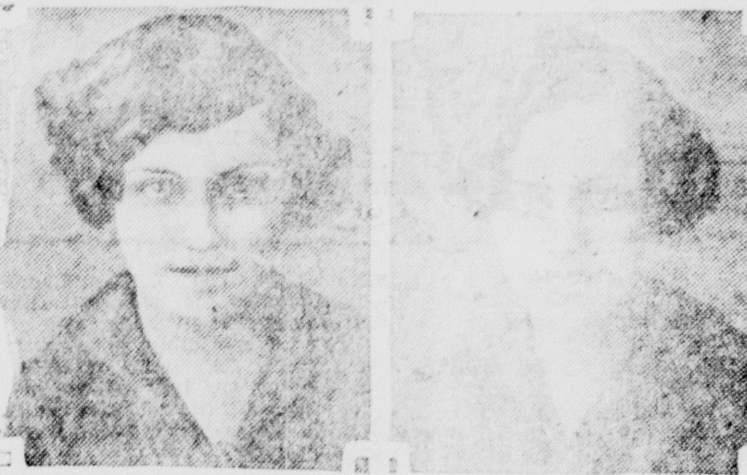

This is a convenient one-plate dish for a cold day. A pilau is not necessarily a chief or meat dish. It may be served as a salad if desired, which means apricots, stoned cherries, and the rice is cooked with raisins or sweetened with honey instead of sugar.

Twins Inseparable, Join Church Together

Marguerite Tobin, at left, and her "identical" twin, Mary, of Bristol, R. I. The girls were separated for the first time when Mary decided to dedicate her life to God. She joined the Mercy Sisters, Marguerite enrolling at Pembroke College, Brown University. Sister-love, however, was too much for her, so she joined Mary in the religious order. Friends call them "Juno's Swans, Coupled, Inseparable." Mary's a shade the more serious of the two. Below, the Robt. Tobin, who were ordained as priests on the same day.

TWO remarkable similarities, the Robts. decided after a time that the illustrations of the fact that Marguerite and Mary were identical twins could be used to their advantage. They were reunited, Marguerite and Mary, who were separated for the first time when Mary decided to dedicate her life to God. She joined the Mercy Sisters, Marguerite enrolling at Pembroke College, Brown University. Sister-love, however, was too much for her, so she joined Mary in the religious order. Friends call them "Juno's Swans, Coupled, Inseparable." Mary's a shade the more serious of the two. Below, the Robt. Tobin, who were ordained as priests on the same day.

Mary and Marguerite Tobin, of Bristol, R. I., had been paired by fate of devotion to God was once in their lives. That was when Mary made a momentous decision, C. and C. A. Robt. twin members "I shall dedicate my life to God." They recently told her twin solemnly, "I want you to join."

But, turn though she was at her thought of leaving the most beloved of sisters, Marguerite had plans of her own. "I want more education," she told Mary. "So I plan to enter Pembroke college, Brown university, in Providence."

This was two years ago when both girls had just been graduated from high school. The two parted forever, they thought, Mary becoming a postulant of St. Francis Xavier's Home, Providence. But final separation was not to be. Marguerite, which carries out the same religious effort.

STYLE EDICTS

Paris, Aug. 5.—Black and white magic models are putting color and combinations in the shade this summer in spite of the cool clime of the dressmaker. To popularize the new campaign, ranging from palest, cream, through line, lemon, daffodil, buttercup and deep cream, with pale yellow-green on the side.

Chic French women say they feel better in black because they know they look better. This season they have consented to mix it up with white or pale pink. Nothing is smarter than a frock of black and white printed crepe de Chine, or children when worn with a coat of plain black silk crepe. A charming one seen at Bagatelle recently had a white background with a design of fine black lines. The skirt ranged in points piped on the hem with a narrow line of black and with a deep cuff and triangular bit of the white hatbands from the upper edge.

Another frock of printed crepe de Chine is made with an interesting skirt in diagonal stripes with ties laced at the front. An original magic ensemble with a touch of yellow in it, the skirt in two diagonal lines, which are like a house jacket at the back of the skirt.

Tokyo.—The Ministry of Communications has decided that minors will not be allowed to ride in passenger airplanes in this country unless they have statement signed by a parent or guardian giving them specific permission to do so. Air insurance will also be inaugurated shortly in Japan.

Chugging Along..

Is your home operating on one cylinder?

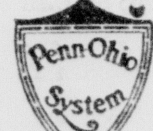

Six and eight cylinders mean motor efficiency — electrical appliances mean household efficiency.

Automobiles and electricity have grown up together and spread over the country at an unprecedented pace. Each has contributed immeasurably to the progress and happiness of the nation.

The day of the one- and two-cylinder automobiles has passed, but there are many homes still "chugging along" without electrical appliances.

Modernize your home. Don't "chug along."
